Candidates discuss jobs

By Bill Bagby

GRANITE CITY — Unemployment in Illinois, and across the country, continues to climb at a steady rate.

Candidates for state and county offices in November's election have varied solutions for tackling the unemployment problem.

"UNEMPLOYMENT needs to be lowered by holding the line on taxes, keeping interest rates low and helping business to succeed," said Judy Koehler, Republican candidate for United States senator. "That's the American way to create jobs."

Koehler said she supports the creation of federal enterprise zones in underdeveloped urban areas.

"I am familiar with Illinois' enterprise zone program and feel that it has been effective," she said.

KOEHLER WOULD also be in-

"The real unemployment percentage would probably be closer to 20 percent if those who are no longer part of the statistics were counted."

Sam Wolf, State representative

terested in exploring concepts such as a sub-minimum wage for disadvantaged youth, she said.

Also favoring enterprise zones is Robert Gaffner, Republican candidate for U.S. representative in the 21st Congressional District.

Gaffner said the enterprise zone is needed regionally "as well as those local pockets that are in extreme difficulty," such as East St. Louis.

GAFNER'S opponent, Rep. Mel Price, D-Belleville, said much of the unemployment problem is caused by the foreign trade deficit. He supports promoting and assisting American manufacturers competing in the international market.

"The federal government must work closely with state and local governments to coordinate training programs for displaced workers," Price said.

"Unemployment continues to be 'officially' in the neighborhood of 12.5 percent," said State Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City.

THE REAL unemployment percentage would probably be closer to 20 percent if those who are no longer part of the statistics were counted," Wolf said.

Candidates differ on recall

By Bill Bagby

GRANITE CITY — Recall of elected officials by the public — is it a good thing? There are varied opinions among candidates in November's election.

"Eighteen states now have laws providing for public recall of elected officials. In Illinois, there is no provision for recall except in Chicago."

"THE RECALL process, in my view, has been abused in many jurisdictions, disrupting the orderly process of government," said State Sen. San Vadalabene, D-

Edwardsville, running for reelection in the 56th District.

"When citizens elect someone to public office, there is a clear understanding of the period of time that person will serve," Vadalabene added. "If malfeasance can be shown, then avenues of remedy already exist."

Solidarity Party candidate for lieutenant governor Michael J. Howlett Jr. said he is in favor of recall "if there are substantial reasons for such a recall and if there are established guidelines which keep the costs down."

"IT IS MOST important that the will of the majority is being served, not the will of a small but vocal minority," Howlett said.

"It is important that the right person is elected into office in the first place," said Kevin Sykes, Republican candidate for state representative in the 111th District.

"If by chance a person is elected and uses the office for unethical reasons — personal gain, etc. — it should be the prerogative of the people of that district to recall, by vote, that elected official," said Sykes, who is opposing State Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City.

United Way gifts increase

By Patrick Foley

More than $300,000 has been pledged thus far in the fall campaign of the Tri-Cities Area United Way.

Campaign Chairman Don Shaffner announced pledges totaling $394,281 or 41 percent of the campaign goal of $751,000.

"We're coming to the difficult part of the campaign," Shaffner said, referring to the outstanding accounts yet to be contacted and the solicitations under way in various plants and businesses in the area.

THE FOUR group totals were given during the second report luncheon Friday in the Niedringhaus United Methodist Church basement. Richard Suess, leader of Group A, business and commercial, announced ed a total of $63,663 in pledges to date or 61 percent of that group's goal of $104,000.

Group B, professionals, headed by Jack Grieves, also is past the halfway point of its solicitation efforts.

Grieves announced a pledge total to date of $36,587 or 55 percent of the $66,000 goal set for Group B.

ED KASTEN, leader for Group C, government, organizations and private donors, reported $12,364 in pledges or 22 percent of that group's $57,000 goal.

He explained that the group usually is slow to start because of the nature of the accounts assigned to the group, but that totals traditionally increase dramatically near the end of the campaign.

Group D, industry, responsible for nearly 70 percent of the overall campaign goal, is at 37 percent of the group goal.

Ron Daine, leader of Group D, announced pledges to date of $191,667. The Group D goal is $524,000.

DAINE SAID many of the in-plant solicitations are still under way, including the Torch Club drive at Granite City Steel, the club is a substantial donor to the campaign.

Shaffner announced pledges of $20,451 or 42 percent of the $49,200 goal for "new money." These are accounts being solicited for the first time during a campaign.

The next report meeting is set for noon on Friday, Oct. 24, at the same location.

Insurance pool could increase athletic coverage by $1 million

By Dave Gosnell

GRANITE CITY — Student athletes in District 9 will have $1 million more in insurance coverage this year if a new statewide insurance pool is formed.

The Board of Education authorized the district to join an insurance pool that covers athletes exclusively. For a $5,459 payment, liability coverage on athletic injuries would increase by $1 million, said the district's finance director, Norm Owca.

"It's a supplement to the insurance we have already. It would cover us for a disaster," said Owca.

Many schools in the state were interested in forming the pool because schools assume greater liability risks with athletics, said Owca.

Insurance companies have sharply increased premiums to schools in the last few years, often citing liability risks with high school athletics.

The extra $1 million would bring total coverage for athletes to slightly more than $3 million. The $3 million would include the district's own $10,000 policy for first medical expenses and, if needed, the Illinois High School Association will pay up to $25,000 in medical expenses.

The bulk of the coverage, however, comes from policies with the IHSA, providing $1 million; the Mississippi Valley pool, providing $1 million; and the proposed statewide "APPLE" pool, providing $1 million.

The district pays $476,172 for 98 percent of its insurance coverage, Owca said.

An unknown man lying across the track in Nameoki caused a sudden stop of the fast Wabash train. Air brakes were applied when the man failed to respond to the whistle. The engine stopped within three feet of where he lay. The man, wanting to fight, was dragged off the rails and the crew gave him some slight punishment. The train then left.

Head lice cases increase

By Dave Gosnell

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Cases of head lice in District 9 schools increased by 22 this year.

Director of vocational and career education Tom Holloway, who also administers the schools' health services, said the increase was detected when all district students were screened for head lice.

Holloway said the increase was probably due to a rise in head lice cases nationally.

"There is a nationwide increase in head lice," said Holloway.

All district students are screened at the beginning of each school year. The number of cases this year was 195 after the screening; last year, 178 were reported.

Holloway said parents are the key to prevention of head lice, which a child can catch by simply putting on another child's clothing.

"We'll find the head lice for the parents and then it's the parent's responsibility," Holloway said. Students are screened by running a thin wooden stick through the child's hair. Parents are informed if their child has head lice.

Holloway said connections are often made between cleanliness and head lice, but such perceptions are myths.

"The cleanest kid in the world can get head lice. All he has to do is put another child's hat on," he said.

Holloway said he might issue a brochure about how parents can prevent occurrences of head lice.

"People ought to be aware it is a problem," he said.

Mary Huck, of the Illinois Department of Health in Springfield, said head lice can be a problem for schools with the approach of winter. "This is the time of year when schools have a problem with head lice. Children wear more caps and coats and all kinds of clothes," Huck said.

She said head lice can crawl from one article of clothing to another while the clothing is hanging close together in a cloak room.

Huck suggested that parents keep children at home, if head lice is found, until a special shampoo treatment is administered. Steps should also be taken to rid lice from clothing and bedding by washing them in very hot water, Huck said.

"Head lice can be a real pain in the neck to get rid of. But it can be done," she said.

Bar recommends Matoesian

By Bill Winter

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Circuit Judge A. Andreas "Andy" Matoesian was recommended by the Illinois State Bar Association on Oct. 13 for retention as a 3rd Circuit judge.

A lawyers' poll rated him 87.22 out of a possible 100.

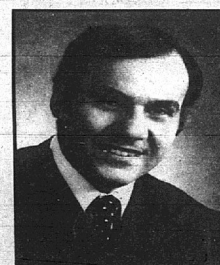

He will run on a non-partisan basis in the Nov. 4 election for a new six-year term.

The Granite City, now 49 years old, won a hotly-contested Democratic primary battle in March 1980 and was chosen by the Illinois Supreme Court to succeed Circuit Judge Harold Clark in July 1980. Clark had resigned that April to become an administrative law judge with the Social Security Administration in Peoria.

Clark was the last Republican circuit judge in the Madison-Bond counties circuit.

Being nominated and then appointed, Matoesian was elected without opposition in November 1980. The post he was elected to had been vacated by Circuit Judge William L. Betty of Granite City when the latter was named a federal judge.

Born and reared in Granite City, Matoesian is married and the father of two children. Upon graduating from high school here, he was employed as a laborer and foundry worker at the former Commonwealth steel plant. He next attended barber school and worked his way through college as a barber. Matoesian attended the University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University for his undergraduate study and graduated in 1964 from the Washington University School of Law in St. Louis.

After practicing law for a short time, he was appointed as an associate judge in 1965. He has served as a civil or criminal trial judge or as a chief circuit judge for the past 21 years. He was chief judge for two and a half years, December 1962 to June 1985.

His view is that "prisons are crowded, but there are certain defendants who just have to be warehoused. Rehabilitation in many cases has not worked. Violent defendants must be kept off the streets; you have to look at the safety of society."

In 1977, Matoesian was appointed to a circuit judge vacancy after John Gitchoff resigned. Defeated for circuit judge in the 1979 election, Matoesian was reappointed as associate judge.

His successful election campaign in 1980 was aided by retired Appellate Judge George Moran, who called him "highly intelligent and highly qualified."

Retired Chief Circuit Judge Fred P. Schuman cited his "ability and fairness."

In this week's Bar Association poll results on Matoesian, 333 ballots were mailed and 175 lawyers responded.

He was evaluated as 85.79 on judicial integrity, 92.43 on judicial temperament, 82.59 on legal ability and 88.45 on court management.

Madison businesses planning for holiday season and 1987

By Donna Kimbro

Staff writer

MADISON — A pre-holiday social evening for Madison businessmen will be held at the First National Bank in Madison on Thursday, Nov. 6, at 5:30 p.m.

Jack Lee, president of the bank, announced plans for the "mixer" at a meeting of the Madison Businessmen's Association held Tuesday at Voloski's Restaurant in Madison.

He said there will be a limited program featuring Christmas season ideas, and an informal question session to focus on 1987 involving all business places in Madison. Invitations will be mailed to members and non-members of the association, he said.

Ray Edwards said the association is interested in finding a key to the individual interests of those who do not attend every meeting.

He said, "We need to know what they would like to have for meeting topics related to them and their business. Also, we want to know whether they want to meet monthly or quarterly to review progress and forecasts of business in Madison."

The group is encouraging participation by all members and has restructured its committees for sessions between the regular MBA meetings. "I think the committees can function more effectively on this basis and bring their recommendations to the general meetings," Edwards said.

Edwards announced the advertising committee will consist of Leo and David Schermer, Al Pace, Jane Leach and Bud Clay.

He also said Jane Leach, Max Mills and Bud Clay have agreed to serve on the board of directors.

Leo Schermer discussed Christmas advertising plans.

The annual arrival of Santa was discussed and, when final, the plans will be announced at a general meeting, Edwards said.

"We want a visible project with member participation to stimulate a continued Madison business upswing. In some areas, business districts have experienced a decline but we have not seen that in Madison," Edwards said.

Leo gave a financial report and noted the association donated $240 to the Madison Auxiliary Police for additional uniforms.

Lee Neely of Lahey-Sedlack was introduced as a new member who agreed to serve as public relations officer and J.D. Atchison, owner of Atchison Appliance Co., was introduced as a new member.

Girl Scout cookie sales set for Quad-City Area

"Cookie Magic" was enjoyed in the Quad-City Area by approximately 200 area registered Girl Scouts, setting the stage for cookie sales beginning Oct. 17.

Oct. 4 was designated in the River Bluffs Girl Scout Council as cookie kickoff day. This year's theme is "Cookie Magic."

The city-wide event took place at the Granite City Township Hall. Vicki Jacobs, chairman, was assisted by Pam Matthews and a number of other volunteers.

The troops attending the two-hour event took part in 10 activities that included the making of "black magic" hats, assisted by Marianne James, Pat Pearman, Cheryl Givensay and Kathy Piechocinski; palm readers, Laurie Jacobs and Daria Portell; silly songs, taught by Debbie Anderson; games, directed by Kathy Sues and Gina Grider; the funny hop, directed by Diane Baker and Kiki Supp; magic tricks, taught by Dorane Conway, Kathy Cuvor, Laura Bernaix, Lathy Bargiel and Christie Roth; a video cassette cookie sale training tape, run by Angie Profit and Joy Epperson; refreshments (samples of the Girl Scout cookies and McDonald's drinks), served by Kathy Hickam, Nancy Somers and Debbie Fassig; a clown, portrayed by Marsha Barron, who gave each girl a doodle poster of Cookie Magic provided by the Little Brownie Cookie Bakery, supplier of Girl Scout cookies; and Marc the Magician (Marc Scott).

Actual cookie sales will take place in the Quad-Cities Oct. 17 through Oct. 26. The cost per box again this year will be $2.

This is the main fund-raiser for the Girl Scouts and support is greatly needed, a spokesman said. If there are any questions or inquiries regarding cookies, the Girl Scout Council office can be reached at 645-1666.

They celebrated the grandmother's birthday during the visit.

Other members of the organization are Lisa, Stephanie and Chris Kult, Melissa Kusmierczak, Jennifer Romanic, Lisa Dohmal, Jennifer Dietrich and Toni Mander.

Lisa Dohmal serves as instructor and Reggie Forsy is the director.

The instructor said the public is invited to attend the annual Halloween dance at the Polish Hall in Madison on Oct. 25. Some who attend will wear Halloween costumes and the admission is $3.

Senator has earned re-election

Alan Dixon, 58, who has been in elective office continually for 37 years, tries for a second six-year term as Illinois' senior United States senator in the Nov. 4 election. We recommend him to voters.

A Democrat with direct service in all three branches of government — judicial, legislative and executive — Dixon is at ease with voters but primarily works behind the scenes, quietly serving constituents and performing wide-ranging duties as a committee fact-finder and a shaper of laws.

He is not usually talked of in presidential terms but could well serve as senatorial leadership responsibilities, just as he did at Springfield. Always well informed, Dixon can work with increasing effectiveness as his seniority increases.

The lifelong Belleville resident is familiar with the needs of Madison and St. Clair counties and also has devoted much time to important nuclear-era duties on the Senate Armed Forces Committee, where crucial defense and spending decisions are made.

One of the wise moves he made soon after beginning his Washington duties was to weld the Illinois Democratic and Republican delegation into a cohesive unit on issues of special impact in this state.

Some of the campaign stands taken by his opponent, State Rep. Judy Koehler, are praiseworthy but her range of experience does not compare with that of the incumbent senator.

Jim Thompson for a 4th term

When prosecutor Jim Thompson first sought the office of governor, Illinoisans wondered whether he would be around long until seeking the presidency or vice presidency. Now, 10 years later, they are wondering whether to make him this state's first four-term chief executive. A Republican, he still harbors White House hopes but has pledged not to run nationally in 1988.

We lean toward Thompson for governor Nov. 4 despite the obvious intellect and abilities of the Illinois Solidary Party candidate, Adlai Stevenson.

Stevenson won the Democratic nomination and then vacated it to avoid running in tandem with the surprise Democratic lieutenant governor nominee, a follower of Lyndon LaRouche's radical philosophy. State Democratic leaders are backing Stevenson and his lieutenant governor and secretary of state running mates.

Thompson has a decade's experience in the office and a sure grasp of its limits and opportunities. Stevenson served as a state representative, state treasurer and U.S. senator but has been out of office since 1980 and lacks leadership experience in a post-involving, multi-faceted state-level department, bureaus and agencies. It is a complex job that takes time to learn.

Illinois' recovery from the national and Midwestern recession has been painfully slow but Thompson has put into place Build Illinois and Opportunity Corridor programs that can meet many infrastructure needs and spark a higher level of prosperity. He has been a builder, including wide local highways and needed state prisons.

Thompson has shown a knack for fostering bi-partisan and labor-management cooperation and has won the backing of the Illinois AFL-CIO, Illinois Federation of Teachers and other groups that usually back Democrats.

We see some flaws in Thompson's performance but regard him as an energetic, innovative, flexible governor who has "walked a tightrope" skillfully in providing needed services while consistently balancing the state budget.

Both candidates have outstanding qualities and the state could function relatively well with either one in the executive mansion.

With Stevenson taking somewhat of a patient, caretaker approach while a senator in coping with late-1980s gubernatorial challenges — we prefer the more active pattern for which Thompson is so well known.

Local citizens, voters can be heard

to the editor:

Many times we have heard someone say that "unfortunately, in our democracy, no one hears from the individual, from the little guy."

This is certainly true if our "little guy or gal" does or says nothing to demand attention.

But for the person who wants to take a stand on an issue, support a candidate, or participate in a cause, the doors are open. In fact, there are many ways to get involved in the political process and support a cause of a candidate on local, state or national levels.

The most obvious ways to get into the act and be heard are as follows:

1. Join and support a political party of political action committee.
2. Write letters to the editor of your local newspaper.
3. Attend meetings to support your cause or candidate.
4. Phone in on radio talk shows or reply to TV station editorials.
5. Write letters or telephone your mayor, councilman, state senator or assemblyman, U.S. congressman or senator, the president or the governor.
6. Put up signs in front of your residence or place of business, or put bumper stickers on your car or truck.

True, no one hears from the little guy or one does hearing, especially if he does not become informed on the issues of the day and the candidates, and does not register or vote.

In recent years, the best example of citizen participation occurred in support of California's Proposition 13, which closely limited the amount of real estate property taxes that can be levied.

In the U.S., voters, the doors are wide open for your sincere ideas, your efforts, and your enthusiasm.

As election day Nov. 4 approaches, now is a great time to get busy and get involved.

There are many candidates and many causes competing for our support. So, let's tell 'em about our ideas.

RALPH S. LITRELL
World War II veteran

Several times we've observed persons vote on issues involving what we see as a clear conflict of interest.

Apparently, however, some public officials know the meaning of the word "integrity." Third Ward Alderman Brett Hanke is such a man.

Hanke was absolutely opposed to the occupancy permit ordinance. Hanke is one of those who owns apartments in Granite City and will feel the impact of the ordinance much sooner than many other property owners.

Hanke, therefore, had a decision to make. In our opinion, it would be no decision at all but in light of the way some others have voted on other issues, it wouldn't have been terribly surprising to see Hanke vote against the ordinance and for his own self-interest.

But Hanke's character. He abstained and watched as the ordinance he personally opposed was approved.

That took integrity.

Those politicians who continue to vote when a conflict of interest is obvious should take a lesson from Brett Hanke.

Change needed in 21st

Madison County's disinterest in putting incumbent U.S. Rep. Mel Price in office for another term was astounding in the March primary.

The seemingly unreachable Price was whipped in Madison County by Auditor Pete Fields' support in St. Clair County, Price's "home," saved his political career, but the damage was done — the public saw Price can be defeated.

The 21st District is ready for a change. For months the talk has been that, should he survive this election, Price will simply serve out his term and then hand the reins to another St. Clair County Democrat.

Twenty-first District voters deserve vigorous representation.

Bob Gaffner, 53, has conducted a clean race against Price.

Gaffner sticks to policy discussions, taking the high road rather than raising the age issue. Gaffner prefers to talk about creating employment, policing military spending and maintaining at least limited revenue sharing.

Gaffner deserves the growing support he's received from voters in area newspapers since he first challenged the incumbent in 1982.

In Madison County newspapers that make regular endorsements, Gaffner is supported by all of them: The Alton Telegraph, the Edwardsville Intelligencer and, now, the Press-Record/Journal.

Judy Taplin, Collinsville Herald-Journal editor, said that newspaper backed Gaffner last time but won't make a formal declaration in this race until Oct. 23.

Gaffner, a conservative on fiscal and family issues, is recognized for what he is — a capable man worthy of a chance to show what he can do in Congress.

We suggest the people of the 21st District respond by electing Gaffner as their next representative in the United States House of Representatives.

Churchich would help reduce crime

To the editor:

Over the last several months, I have watched and listened with great interest as Bob Churchich's opponent has promised the citizens of Madison County everything but the moon and stars in his bid for sheriff.

He has said he will enforce the driving under the influence laws, as well as taking the drugs off our streets.

Every police department around works to get drunks off the street, so he isn't starting anything new.

As for enforcing the drug laws, everybody knows that almost every police department around the area supplies manpower to one group whose sole purpose is the enforcement of our drug laws.

Let the people already trained for this do their jobs and let the sheriff's office do theirs — such as heavy patrols to combat residential and business burglaries, which are at an all-time high.

We already have highway enforcement for drunks; we do not need the sheriff's department on the highways also. We need the deputies in the subdivisions.

Churchich is already well known for his involvement in neighborhood watch programs. He is interested in stopping the thefts of our hard-earned property taken from us by the sneaks who prey on us.

Churchich has been a professional police officer for 28 years, with nearly half of that time as a leader of men and an administrator.

We do not need a man who gets on the coattails of others to get votes, such as Churchich's opponent has.

We need a man who has proven time and time again that he can do the job, such as Churchich has done. Churchich does not have to make promises; all he has to do is rely on his reputation.

Get involved; let's vote for Churchich for sheriff of Madison County.

"No. Because candidates can't be judged by only their party affiliation. People should vote for the person who's going to benefit the public best."

Will ballot confuse voters?

Will the November ballot for statewide races confuse voters because of the split-up of Democrats on two tickets, and will the split ticket have any effect on the outcome of the elections?

Ron Burton, Granite City

"It will only confuse the uneducated voter. I don't think it will affect it (the election) enough to make a difference. They'll (the Democrats) still get in."

Official shows integrity in voting

Hanke, therefore, had a decision to make. In our opinion, it would be no decision at all but in light of the way some others have voted on other issues, it wouldn't have been terribly surprising to see Hanke vote against the ordinance and for his own self-interest.

But Hanke's character. He abstained and watched as the ordinance he personally opposed was approved.

That took integrity.

Those politicians who continue to vote when a conflict of interest is obvious should take a lesson from Brett Hanke.

Official shows integrity in voting

Several times we've observed persons vote on issues involving what we see as a clear conflict of interest.

Apparently, however, some public officials know the meaning of the word "integrity." Third Ward Alderman Brett Hanke is such a man.

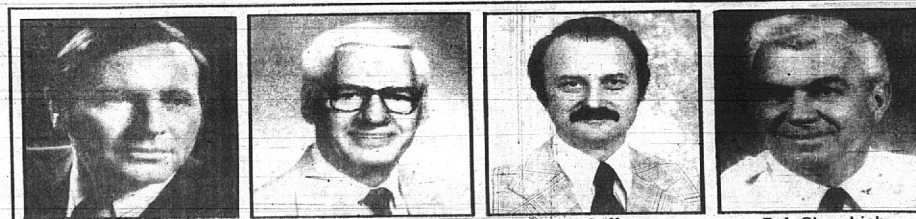

Hanke was absolutely opposed to the occupancy permit ordinance. Hanke is one of those who owns apartments in Granite City and will feel the impact of the ordinance much sooner than many other property owners.

Venice schools seek parents' involvement

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

VENICE — Encouraging more parents to get involved in the schools and to accept greater responsibility for the educational process are primary goals of High School Principal John Rush.

Rush and Grade School Principal Seth Kirkpatrick gave school status reports Thursday night to the Venice Board of Education.

"MY MAIN THRUST this year is getting more parents involved in the educational process."

"Our students have got to have that support at home to do well," Rush said Friday.

The number of grade school pupils eligible for free or reduced-cost lunches has reached a staggering 90 percent of the student population, Kirkpatrick told the board.

THIS PERCENTAGE is much higher than is normal, Superintendent of Schools Robert N. Vickers said.

There are 324 pupils enrolled in grade school, as compared to 334 at the end of the 1985-86 year, Kirkpatrick said.

Last year, about 86 percent were considered eligible. The current eligibility figures were rechecked and will be further substantiated in December, the principal said.

CHILDREN ELIGIBLE to receive free lunches are from families on Public Aid or whose yearly income meets guidelines set by federal and state authorities.

Improving student attendance is a key objective this year, the high school principal told board members.

In September, high school attendance was 82 percent, Rush said. In September 1985 the attendance level was 92 percent.

Attendance in special education classes this year is 84 percent, somewhat lower than last September's 93 percent.

SEVENTY-TWO high school students have perfect attendance records so far, Rush said.

On the other hand, there are eight students who have missed 10 or more days of school.

"We have to convince parents to work with us to reduce this number. Parental responsibility definitely is involved in this," Rush said.

ENROLLMENT at the high school in September was 165 pupils, down by 10 from last year.

Fewer students in the senior, sophomore and trainable classes account for the difference. However, the current freshman class of 47 students is larger than the class in 1985, Rush said.

Rush hopes to publish two school newsletters this year, he said. The VHS principal drew attention to the current edition.

FEATURED are honors accorded faculty member Althea Cross by the Illinois State Board of Education, and experiences of Venice basketball star Jesse Hall during a visit to Princeton University.

Getting the computer system operational and ordering more software programs also are planned for the high school this year, the principal said.

"I hope to have the staff evaluation plan going this year," Rush said. The district's evaluation plan has been submitted to the state.

THE EVALUATION process calls for new teachers to be assessed twice each year, with an assessment made once a year for established faculty members.

Development of a staff assessment plan was mandated under the state's Education Reform Act.

Kirkpatrick reported 84 grade school students are being bused from the Eagle Park area and 94 from South Venice.

Pupils in the fifth grade have the highest attendance record of 97.6 percent and second grade students are recording 95 percent attendance, the grade school principal said.

ALL 13 STUDENTS in the early childhood class are from Granite City, Kirkpatrick said. Six Madison and six Venice students are in the educable class at Venice.

Kirkpatrick said the addition of two new teachers has improved the school and a new aide also is proving to be helpful.

Eighty-five children have been tested for speech and 38 for hearing impairment. A child enrichment program for kindergarten through the fourth grade is well under way, he said.

FOURTH GRADE pupils again are involved in the YMCA swim program, the principal said.

The Venice Parent-Teacher Association, which was reorganized last year, is actively developing programs and the group has met three times, it was noted.

Kirkpatrick said he hopes to reduce the large number of student suspensions experienced last year.

He asked the board to consider using an in-school suspension system instead of giving a suspended student "a glorified vacation."

"A MAJOR CONCERN to me is the reading level of students," Kirkpatrick said. Some of the students tested are reading two grade levels below the grade they are in," he said.

"We hope to increase the reading level this school year by at least nine months," he said.

Kirkpatrick also asked the board to consider having parents pick up a child's report card at the end of the fifth six-week period and, at the same time, register their child for the next school year.

This would go with the collection of textbook fees and also give a chance to update the data on each student, he said.

"WE NEED TO GET abreast of any problems and see the parents face to face before that time," Board President Wilbert Glasper said.

"It's a problem getting parents to school and it's not getting any better; it is getting worse. It is up to the parents to help make this a good school district as we are trying to do," Glasper said.

Kirkpatrick has tried holding report cards until parents pick them up. "It appears there is no concern by (some) parents about the cards, as they never pick them up. I have a stack this big," he said, holding his hands several inches apart.

BOARD MEMBER George Wade thanked the principals for their reports, saying "Our main concern is for the children, our future adults."

"Is there anything in the State of Illinois school code about getting these parents here?" he asked.

"I don't know any legal way of dragging parents here. You can set a policy where a parent picks up a report card. But I can't say whether they want to or whether they would pick them up," Supt. Vickers said.

LUMPS IN THE BREAST

About 20% of American women have "fibrocystic disease," in which small tender lumps can be felt within the breasts. The condition portends a somewhat increased risk of cancer. Caffeine and related substances in coffee, tea, chocolate, cola, some medicines, and tobacco smoke are partly responsible, reports the Journal of AMA. Fibrocystic lumps disappeared from the breasts of 37 out of 45 women who eliminated their intake of stimulants. The Journal also reported that fibrocystic lumps disappeared or decreased in 22 of 26 women who took vitamin E, 600 units daily, for 12 weeks.

Varied drug abuse prevention for grade schools

Piasa Health Care is announcing substance abuse prevention programs for elementary schools this year. Babes, a seven-week program for grades kindergarten through third, was introduced into Madison County last year by Debra Bazzardi, prevention specialist. The program uses puppets to present a prevention message to students.

Operation Snowflake for the fourth through eighth grades is a half-day program emphasizing alcohol and substance abuse information, self-esteem, and how to say "no."

"Growing Up Well" is a new program for kindergarten through the eighth grade.

Teachers may schedule any where from one to four sessions per grade level. This program gives schools more flexibility in prevention programming and provides teachers more opportunity for involvement.

Piasa has received many requests for prevention and education programs. Jean Schram, director of training and training, says that she is pleased with the number of requests coming from the elementary level. "Prevention needs to start in pre-school or kindergarten and then be reinforced throughout the following school years," she is convinced. Piasa, 656-8112, is still accepting requests for Babes, Snowflake, and Growing Up Well. Schools and Parent-Teacher Associations that wish to implement their own prevention program may receive training and materials by contacting Piasa.

Walk-on planning retirement lecture

An individual's retirement years are supposed to be a time of non-worry and relaxation; yet, often because of financial problems or of retirement planning, those years are a time of wondering how to survive financially, experts say.

As a result, Walk-on (Widows and widowers are learning knowledge of necessities) will sponsor a seminar on retirement and pre-retirement planning by Susan Kornegay of Dean Witter Reynolds Inc. at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 21, at the Nameoki

Presbyterian Church, 1700 Pontoon Road.

Kornegay is an associate vice president. Her talk will include determining financial resources, identifying goals and selecting the best ways to use resources to meet those goals. Kornegay will show color slides and distribute information packets.

The program is open to the public. Refreshments and snacks will be served. Liz Neeley can be called at 876-4321 for more information.

Venice prepares for district report card

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

VENICE — Parents of Venice students will get two report cards when the sixth-week cards are sent home on Monday, Oct. 27.

The usual pupil progress reports from a child's teacher will be accompanied by a second card reflecting the status of the district by assessing the performance of its schools and students.

ROBERT VICKERS, superintendent of schools, on Thursday night reminded members of the Venice Board of Education about the timetable for releasing both individual students' classroom performance report card and the school district's first annual assessment report.

"We met with high school faculty members on Oct. 7 and with the grade school faculty today.

"I will make a presentation to the board at the Oct. 23 meeting," Vickers said.

BOARD MEMBERS earlier agreed to delay sending the student report cards, the first in the 1986-87 school year, by one week to allow the district report to be distributed at the same time.

Vickers has offered to explain the district report to Parent-Teacher

Association members and also to meet with the entire Venice teaching staff at some future date to review implications of the report, he told the board.

Noting many complexities in the school district report, Vickers commented, "It is difficult for anyone to answer all questions concerning the report. But I prefer that any major questions be directed to the superintendent for an answer, so that the school administration speaks with one voice."

MANY SCHOOL districts are concerned because student achievement and other educational factors can vary greatly from school to school and the data may be misinterpreted by the public.

Vickers cautioned that an evaluation of the quality of any school must be based on all data and not a single statistic, such as administrative salaries or expenditures in a specific area.

The report card concept, involving student characteristics and performance, instructional conditions and school finances, was passed by the state legislature in 1985 along with other school reform measures.

Most aspects of the Illinois Education Reform Act (Senate Bill 730), considered one of the most sweeping education reform packages in the nation, are being put into effect this year. School districts are to release the district report card information by Oct. 31, the legislation states.

PURPOSE of the district reports is to give better accountability through an index of school performance measured against statewide and local standards.

The data also are expected to provide information to make prior-year comparisons and to set future targets.

Information in district reports will indicate student performance in tests against the national norm, student attendance rates, graduation rates, student mobility, transfers, turnovers and the percentage of college-bound students.

THE AVERAGE CLASS size, percentage of enrollments in high school mathematics, science, English and social science, pupil-teacher ratio, pupil-administrator ratio, operating expenditure per pupil and district expenditure by fund also are included.

Likewise, the amount of time each day devoted to math, science, English and social science at the primary, intermediate and junior high school grade levels — and the percent of students enrolled in college preparatory, general education and vocational education programs — will be part of the district assessment reports.

More than 1.8 million students were enrolled in Illinois public grade and high schools last year, with about 70 percent in grade school classrooms.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Generally speaking, persons injured as a result of medical malpractice have two years to bring an action against the negligent physician. Illinois law provides that the two-year limitation period starts to run on the date when the claimant knew, or through the use of reasonable diligence should have known, of the existence of the injury. The question sometimes arises as to how much information must be available to an injured person in order to trigger the running of the two-year limitation period. Obviously, not all medical malpractice is immediately ascertainable following a negligent diagnosis or treatment.

In one recent case, a woman consulted a gynecologist due to recurrent pain in her left ovary. In December of 1979, the doctor performed surgery and removed her uterus. In July of 1980, the physician performed additional surgery to remove scar tissue. The woman had previously indicated to the gynecologist that she felt the left ovary was the source of the recurring pain. Several physicians had indicated to the plaintiff in earlier years that the ovary would ultimately have to be removed. She indicated this to the gynecologist, but he refused to remove the left ovary.

The pain worsened after the second surgery, and the plaintiff consulted another physician in October of 1980. A surgeon removed both ovaries on January 28, 1981. In the summer of 1982, the woman consulted an attorney regarding a possible medical malpractice claim against the original gynecologist.

The attorney requested a medical opinion from the second physician who had been treated in October of 1980. This doctor indicated that he saw no impropriety in the prior treatment by the original gynecologist. Because of this opinion, the plaintiff felt she had no basis for a malpractice suit and delayed filing the medical malpractice action until November 28, 1983.

The question arose as to whether the woman filed the case within two years of the time she knew of the injury. The Court concluded that the plaintiff should have known she had been injured by the doctor's negligent treatment by late January or early February of 1981. The Court emphasized that the woman had obtained the care of other physicians three years before suit was filed. She should have known the injury was "wrongfully caused" based on these consultations. Therefore, it was held that this case was not filed within the two-year period, thus disposing of this matter in the doctor's favor.

Recall

WOLF SAID he would be in favor of legislation providing for public recall.

"We already have laws on the books to provide for recall for misconduct, etc., in office," he said. "However, there are areas which are not presently covered which should be."

"I believe elected officials should be free to work within the constraints set by statute without the constant threat of recall," said Attorney General Neil Hartigan, seeking re-election in November.

"MANY TIMES decisions by officials, though not popular with citizens in the short term, have positive long-term effects for the citizenry and the state," he added.

Hartigan's opponent, Bernard Carey, is also against public recall. "I have always put my faith in the elective process and the wisdom of the voters," Carey said.

U.S. Rep. Mel Price, D-Bellefonte, also said he would not favor recall. "Over the years, I have observed many changes in the art of politics, and I believe that the biggest change is the ability of one-issue groups or PACs (political action committees) to influence politics," Price said.

Price's opponent, Robert Gaffner, said he favors recall of public officials.

ROLE OF THE CORONER

Many people misunderstand the role of the medical examiner (coroner) and believe it is necessary to call him no matter what the cause or circumstance of death. It seems worthwhile, therefore, to clarify this issue.

The fact is that there are only a few instances in which the presence of a coroner is required by law. In most jurisdictions, for instance, the coroner must act ONLY in case of accidental death, death from other than natural causes, or the sudden death of a person not recently under a physician's care. The purpose of this is to determine the cause of death in cases where that is not otherwise evident.

In most instances, your funeral director can advise you whether or not the coroner is needed. EVEN IF THE CORONER HAS ALREADY BEEN CALLED BY SOMEONE OUTSIDE THE FAMILY, YOU ARE STILL ENTITLED TO CALL THE FUNERAL DIRECTOR OF YOUR OWN CHOICE AND DO NOT HESITATE TO VOICE THAT CHOICE.

Jobs discussed

"This is difficult to deal with for an area such as Metro-East which is highly industrial and one of the hardest hit in the state."

Wolf said improvement of sites of interest to investors and developers, such as Interstate 255 and the land surrounding it, will help to spark economic development and help lower the unemployment figures.

Wolf's opponent, Kevin Sykes, said this area is losing job opportunities to northern Illinois.

"WE MUST KEEP our industry strong in central Illinois," Sykes said. "The unemployment figures are not going to end overnight. It's going to take a lot of hard work at home and in government."

State Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, said emphasis on educational improvement and ventures to strengthen the economy must continue.

"So deep a set of causes will not respond to suddenly bright ideas or spectacular proposals," he said. "This problem demands sustaining the steady, determined effort that has been well begun."

"THERE ARE NO easy answers to the continuing unemployment

Missionary meetings at Central Baptist

The annual missionary conference and revival is being held at Central Baptist Church, 290 Highway 11, on Oct. 15-19, featuring three missionaries speaking and showing problem facing the area," said Nellie Hagnauer, running for reelection to the Madison County Board representing District 20.

Hagnauer said the county, working closely with municipal and township governments, is taking steps to improve the unemployment situation.

These steps include the revolving loan program, industrial revenue bond issues, Urban Development Action Grants, administration of the Job Partnership Training Act, and the job training programs, and a job club program.

"A RECENT example of how these problems have been used successfully to create employment opportunities for our residents is the reopening of the A.O. Smith Corp. plant in Granite City," Hagnauer said.

Frank Laub, county board candidate in District 19, said continuation of job training programs and examination of tax abatement programs — in an attempt to attract industry — are two ways to help decrease unemployment in this area.

Griffin next test for GC football team

By Gregg Ochoa

Executive Sports Editor

It doesn't get any easier, that's for sure. The Granite City Warrior football team will face its fourth undefeated opponent in as many weeks when they host Springfield Griffin Friday at Memorial Stadium. Kickoff is at 7:30 p.m.

After being blown out by Belleville Althoff 41-0 last week, the Warriors face Griffin (4-0) in a game that will cap off homecoming week at the high school.

The Cyclones, rated No. 6 in the Class 4A statewide poll, have won 15 consecutive regular season games over the last two years.

Griffin was 10-1 last year when they were led by quarterback Chris Ondra, now on scholarship at the University of Illinois.

"We've always been a team that was able to bounce back," said Granite City coach Ron Yates. "I just hope we are able to do it again."

The Warriors were flat out-muscled against Althoff, now the area's only undefeated team.

Griffin City managed just 126 yards (total offense back) in the Crusaders' top-ranked defense. "It was the shock treatment that I think we needed," Yates said. "They knocked a chip off our shoulder and woke us up from our dream of the East St. Louis game."

Yates and his staff have vividly given the slate and are trying to emphasize the positive. The loss, while humbling, still did not disrupt the Warriors' hopes of a playoff berth. Granite City (5-1) is 3-0 in the Southwestern Conference with two SWC games remaining. If the Warriors would win the conference crown, they would receive an automatic bid.

Still, Yates knows his team must regroup. They were stopped cold by Althoff. Granite City managed just 47 yards rushing and just 79 yards through the air. "We got beat at the line of scrimmage and were hurt by their quickness," Yates said.

In Griffin, the Warriors will have their work cut out. The Cyclones, 13-6 winners over Edwardsville last week, are led by back Donnie Hurrell.

He scored both of Griffin's touchdowns, one on a 64-yard punt return and the other on a 48-yard run. On the night, he rushed for 123 yards against the Tigers.

"We will have to stop their big play," Yates said. "If the Warriors are to be successful, they must be able to utilize their strong passing attack. On defense, Granite City must tighten up against the run. Last week, Althoff ran at will on the Warriors' defense, piling up 396 yards."

A win for the Warriors will give the team a big boost as they head into the final two weeks of the season against Alton and Belleville East.

"This is an important game for us," Yates said. "I think the kids have something to prove, not only to themselves, but to their followers."

Depew bows out in sectional

Eldon Depew ended the Granite City High School goal season by shooting an 88 in the IHSA Sectional Tournament at St. Clair County Club in Belleville.

Depew's score was not enough to place him in the top 12 at the sectional, which would have advanced him to the state tournament this week.

Mike O'Connell of Quincy took medal honors at the meet with a 74. Kevin Goolby of Belleville West and Chris Scheibel and Jay Hepler of Edwardsville were area golfers who did advance.

Edwardsville (330), O'Fallon (335) and Springfield (336) were the teams that advanced to the state tournament in Pekin, which is scheduled for tomorrow and Saturday.

Kahoks shock Warriors

By Gregg Ochoa

Executive Sports Editor

GRANITE CITY — The Jinx is over. The past two nights, the Granite City soccer team has been involved in a piece of history, but it's the kind of milestone the team would just as soon forget.

On Tuesday, Belleville Althoff beat the Warriors for the first time in its history. Last night, another first took place. Collinsville rallied to score a 3-2 win over the Warriors Wednesday night at the Gauntlet, marking the first time the Kahoks have ever beaten Granite City on its home field.

The last time Granite City lost two games in succession was 1981 when South lost to Reitz Memorial and Vianney in the Tournament of Champions.

"We've been flat," said a disappointed Gene Baker. "It's time for us to get hungry. If losses make us hungry, then we should be getting there."

Collinsville's victory over the Warriors was the school's first over Granite City in regular season play since 1983. The meeting was the 25th between the two schools in the last 14 years. Granite City still leads the series 17-3.

"I consider this a very special situation," said Kahoks coach Jim Stranz. "Obviously we are very pleased. This will help out with our confidence and in the conference."

Brad Paton got the game-winning on a set-up from Joey Schallert with 1:40 left in the game. Paton's high shot found the back of the net.

"He's our leader," Stranz said. "We work a lot on that in practice, and the ball was very well served."

The goal ruined a comeback by the Warriors, who trailed 1-0 after the match's first three minutes on a goal by Tim Johnson.

Granite outplayed the Kahoks in the second period, outshooting Collinsville 6-1. Granite City tied the game at 1-1 near the 28-minute mark on a goal by John Van Buskirk. It was the freshman's second as a member of the varsity.

The play was set up by the work of another freshman, Troy Adamits, who dribbled through traffic and hit a low shot that Kahoks goalie Mark Althoff had to dive for. The ball went off his fingertips and right to the foot of Van Buskirk, who put it in the back of the net.

"He (Van Buskirk) just played his heart out there. What else can you say about his effort?" Baker said.

Four minutes later, Jeff Grote had a good opportunity when he took the ball near midfield and dribbled past five players, but his shot went wide.

Granite City held a 9-3 advantage in shots after the first 40 minutes of play.

"This game is like a stock market," Stranz said. "Early on, their price was high."

The Warriors took their only lead at the 42-minute mark. Bill Aleksandrian did some nice work in the Collinsville end and was eventually pulled down in the box by Bret Cassidy.

Kirk Mills connected on the penalty kick, depositing the ball in the lower left-hand corner of the net, making it 2-1.

"That was a clutch penalty kick by Kirk and very well deserved," said Baker.

Granite City controlled things in the third period and even managed six shots on goal, but couldn't add another tally.

The fourth period was the Warriors' undoing as the Kahoks rallied for two goals.

Collinsville got the tying goal on a pretty shot by Joe Reinger, a sophomore, whose low drive just found the inside of the post.

"You really can't fault anybody on that play," Baker said. "It was just a great shot."

After tying the game, play started to get physical and the Kahoks, who have been involved in two fights this year, seemed to get the better of the play.

As expected, Jason Smith, the Collinsville transfer, was dumped almost everywhere he touched the ball. Smith, however, would have had a goal had it not been for a great diving save by Althoff in the first quarter.

There were 34 fouls called during the match and one yellow card issued.

Granite City seemed to get rattled by the Kahoks' aggressiveness and made several lapses, including leaving players unmarked.

"It's time we started shaking things up," Baker said. "We are tired of being pushed around."

Stranz admitted that he would have been happy with a tie, especially playing at the Gauntlet.

"I told the kids just to level off the match in the fourth quarter, because a tie is just as good as a win on this field," he said.

The loss leaves the Warriors with a 12-3-2 (4-1 in the Southwestern Conference). The Kahoks are 4-1-1 in the SWC and 8-3-2 overall.

Granite City is back in action to play against Belleville East and will play at Alton on Saturday.

Stars fall to top-rated Norsemen

By Dave Whaley

Staff writer

FERGUSON, Mo. — The task seemed simple enough. All the Granite City Campus Stars soccer team had to do was travel across the river and defeat the No. 1 junior college soccer team in the nation. Easy, right?

Of course not. The Stars stayed in the game for one half, then the Florissant Valley Community College Norsemen kicked into fifth gear in the second 45 minutes for a 7-1 trouncing of the Stars here Tuesday afternoon.

"I don't know if it was any adjustments they made in their attack strategy as much as some adjustments we made," said Stars coach Larry Petri.

"But they tuned it up a notch." They tuned it up more than a notch, as the Norsemen exploded for six second-half goals to break open a 1-0 halftime game.

Forwards Joe Becker and Rich Lyons each got to wear hats at the end of the game, as they both collected three-goal hat tricks. Lyons had all three of his goals in the last 20 minutes of the game.

"I don't know if you can say we were them down in the second half," said long-time Flo Valley coach Pete Sorber, whose team is now 3-0 on the year and 5-0 in the Midwest Community College Athletic Conference. "We just didn't play a real good first half. We were giving the ball away too much and not forcing things."

Still, the Norsemen, who have now outscored their opponents 41-4 this year, outshot the Stars 10-4 in the opening half and had the lion's share of the scoring chances. Ron Schonhoff directed a goalmouth pass toward the Stars' net in the first six minutes, but goalie

Giant-killer Midgets face Madison

By Dave Whaley

Staff writer

They don't sound like much. The Freeburg Midgets.

But these Midgets rose up to a higher level last Friday night, handing the Dupo Tigers their first Cahokia Conference loss since 1982, a 10-7 decision at Freeburg.

So while the mighty Tigers will be left to possibly collect only an at-large berth in the state playoffs, the Midgets are now in the driver's seat in the league with a 4-0 record. They are 4-2 overall.

Friday night, the Midgets will invade Sam Dymas Memorial Field for a 7:30 p.m. game against the Madison Trojans, now 3-3. The Trojans' playoff hopes have all but gone out the window.

Even after a heartbreaking 16-8 loss Oct. 3 to Dupu at home, the Trojans were still in playoff contention heading into last Saturday's game at East St. Louis Assumption, where they were 2-3 and desperate for a win themselves.

"They wanted the game more than we did," said Trojans coach Don Smith. "We need someone taking charge."

The Trojans were held to 144 yards of total offense, only one yard more than the Pioneers' Jacques Norris managed on the ground alone. Assumption had 360 yards of offense and relied on two Norris touchdowns and a 48-yard pass from Michael Stewart to Damien Hill for another score.

Angelo Cross now has 645 yards rushing on the year after picking up 65 yards on 13 carries Saturday, and Smith said he hopes the big senior fullback can bill his way to a 1,000-yard season. He would

But Knollman unexpectedly muffed an overhead floater serve. She saw the ball hit the net and drop, ending any chance for a Warrior victory.

"I felt like I lost it for us," Knollman said. "I should have gotten the serve over the net."

But Knollman wouldn't have even been serving had she not saved the game earlier for the Warriors.

Knollman said she thought teammate LaVault played well, diving for many balls that otherwise would have counted as points for Belleville East.

According to Deterding, it was a fairly typical match for the Warriors because "we either play extremely well or not at all."

The two teams will meet again Oct. 23 at Granite City. If Moorehead shows the spiking skill she had Tuesday, the Warriors may be in for a night of dodging bullets.

NOTES: The Warrior junior varsity team lost to Belleville East 15-10, 15-13. Granite City plays Thursday at Roxana before heading home to host Lincoln on Monday. Post-season play begins Oct. 28, with Granite City hosting a regional that includes Edwardsville, Roxana and Triad. The winner advances to the Belleville East Sectional the week of Nov. 3.

'Super hitter' spells trouble for spikers

By John Twombly

Correspondent

BELLEVILLE — It seemed that one girl spelled the difference in the second volleyball game between the Granite City Warriors and host Belleville East Tuesday. The Lancers defeated the Warriors 15-1, 15-13.

"They (East) have a super hitter," said an astonished Warrior head coach Don Deterding after the match. "I don't know her name, but she was putting some spin on the ball, like bullets."

That "super hitter" was Kim Moorehead, a slim blonde who moves in the air with as much energy as a spastic Pee Wee Herman, only much more gracefully.

East coach Ron Stephenson chewed on a toothpick after the game. As he jawed away, he was asked if Moorehead spelled the difference in the close second-game Lancer victory.

"She spells the difference in a lot of games," he said. "She has the confidence and she's a good hitter."

Moorehead had six spikes in the second game, accounting for almost half of Belleville East's points.

In the first game, however, Moorehead's hits didn't particularly trouble the Warriors. Granite City had other problems.

"I don't want to make excuses for the team — they played poorly tonight," said Deterding. "But the gym's cold and we've been sitting here since 5:00 for the JV games (about four hours before the end of the varsity match). We just weren't warmed up for that first game."

It looked as though Granite City was going to rebound from their lopsided loss in the first game when, on the strength of Tammy LaVault's serves, the Warriors took an early 7-1 lead.

Then the Lancers pierced the Warriors, coming from behind on the strength of Moorehead's attacking.

Granite City took a 12-9 lead when Sandy Sternberg spiked the ball, but Sternberg was to be the last Warrior to earn a point.

The final point for Belleville East didn't come easy, though. A volley lasting almost a full minute ensued, as Granite City's Wendy Knollman, for a moment, kept the game alive for her team.

Knollman saved the ball from going out of play after a Warrior player touched it. Knollman ran past the right sideline and, in one motion, she used her fist to return the ball.

So Belleville East still led 14-12, but it was Granite City's chance to serve.

ged to average 119 yards rushing in the last three games.

For the Midgets, they came up with a big defensive effort to shut down the powerful Dupo running game. They held the Tigers under 100 yards rushing and piled up 249 yards on the ground themselves. They blocked two field goal attempts by Scott Tieman in the fourth quarter to preserve the triumph.

They are paced on the ground by twins Mike and Luke Schutzenhofer. Mike scored the only touchdowns in the Dupo game in a 15-yard run.

But the difference in the game was provided by Marcio DeBarros, a foreign exchange student from Brazil who connected on a 45-yard field goal in the second quarter for the winning points.

"He's doing a pretty good job with the kicking," said Freeburg coach Dennis Dalke, who will have his head shaved next week to keep a promise he made to his players about beating Dupo. "Marcio has come in and been just what we needed. And he gets along with the other kids very well. It's just been a good situation for everybody."

The Midgets need only to beat Red Bud Oct. 24 to clinch the conference title, but they need to beat Madison just to be safe.

"That will be tough," Dalke said. "They're dang good. They're the best 3-3 team around. Madison is big and fast, and we'll have to stop their passing game as well as Cross."

"They played Dupo in the rain and outplayed them, I thought. I expect a real close game."

NOTES: Cross is now third in the area in rushing with 645 yards, 6.2 per rush. He is also fifth in the area in total yardage. Stephen Boyd's seven interceptions are second in the area, and Bradley Papa's three quarterback sacks, including a pair against Assumption, tie him for eighth.

Sports scene's odds 'n ends

Taking care of some loose ends: The just-completed Granite City/Pepsi Tournament of Champions once again provided some quality competition.

The tournament, which spanned 28 games and more than 2,400 minutes, proved that there is parity in soccer, and yes, there is quality play on this side of the river.

As usual, the Warriors displayed their skills and held their own against the area's elite. Granite City advanced to the Final Four for the third straight year and placed third despite playing with a roster right out of "General Hospital."

The surprise team of the tournament was Parkway West, which placed second. In three games, West shut out three of the area's most-respected teams.

"But the roller coaster ride to the finals ran out of steam against St. Louis U. High."

"We were like mummies out there," said West coach Bill Taylor. "We didn't have anything left."

I, for one, am glad the tournament is over. Not that I don't like soccer, but I was going in debt munching at the concession stand. The food was good, but there is no expense account for nachos.

When Belleville Althoff beat the Warrior soccer team 2-1 Tuesday night at Laderman Park, it marked the first win for Todd Neighbors as a head coach.

3 on 3 tourney set for Oct. 18.

The Granite City Park District will sponsor a 3-on-3 basketball tournament Oct. 18.

The tournament will take place at Lincoln Place Community Center. A $5 entry fee will be required for the double elimination tournament.

Four players are allowed on each roster, with the games to be played to 27 points. Players foul out after three fouls, with bonus shots awarded after the third foul. All change of possessions go to the top of the key.

T-shirt will be awarded for first place. A referee and scorekeeper will be provided. Entry fees will be accepted through Oct. 16.

Wooden Shoes player killed in car crash

Todd Kroeger, the only junior starter on last year's Illinois Class A state champion basketball team from Teutopolis, was killed in a two-car automobile crash Sunday night.

Kroeger, who helped eliminate the Venice Red Devils in the Super-Sectionals, died in an Effingham hospital after the accident on a county road just north of Teutopolis. Police said the driver of one of the cars involved in the crash, Richard Brummer of Dieterich, Ill., was dead at the scene.

Kroeger, 17, was a passenger in the other car. He was the point guard on a Wooden Shoes team that was 33-0 en route to the Class A title last year. He was regarded as the team's best defensive player, averaging 10.3 points per game and 3.2 assists.

Kroeger played a big part in Teutopolis' thrilling 76-73 win over Venice in the Super-Sectional game March 4 at Charleston. He scored 16 points and was 6 of 6 from the free throw line, including two free throws with 26 seconds left that put the Wooden Shoes ahead for good. That game was the closest call of the year for the Shoes, who held off the Red Devils despite 35 points by Jesse Hall.

Kroeger was to be the only returning starter on the team in 1987.

"We lost not only a very good basketball player, but a personal friend," said Teutopolis coach Ken Crawford. "It's a loss that we'll feel for some time."

Sports Comment

By Gregg Ochoa

Neighbors, a 1981 Althoff graduate who played college soccer at MacMurray, took over as the Crusaders' head coach on a temporary basis after Larry Mank's wife was hospitalized.

The victory was also Althoff's first-ever in soccer over Granite City.

The Collinsville High School football team is 0-3 since head coach Bob Hollinshead had his hair cut during a pep assembly on Sept. 26.

In those three losses, Collinsville has scored just 12 points. And the Tribe still has to play Althoff and East St. Louis in the season's final two weeks.

● Stars

Chris Sondkers came across to get his leg on the shot. Then Bill Murphy was in line, but Sondkers stopped him.

The Stars' best chance came at the 19:00 mark when John Finnin headed one from about 12 yards out that Flo Valley goalie Heath Ward blocked.

The Norsemen finally broke through at 26:30 when Becher took a crossing pass from Murphy on the left side and drilled a low shot into the near corner past a diving Sondkers.

That would have appeared to be enough for a team that had allowed only one goal from the field all year, the other two goals they allowed previous to Tuesday were on penalty kicks. But Flo Valley came out with their guns loaded in the second half.

They almost scored right before halftime and then again early in the second half when the ball got behind Sondkers, but Pat Phillips was there on both occasions to knock the ball out of trouble. But it was only a matter of time.

Becher showed he could pass as well as shoot when he slid a quick pass to Warren Dey speeding in from the wing. His hard shot found the far lower corner at 51:00, as Sondkers had no chance.

Thirty minutes later, Becher was dumped in the penalty area by Marty Rocco, and he easily deposited the penalty kick for a 3-0 lead. At 62:00, the scene was repeated, and again Becher buried the kick for his third goal of the game.

"Both of these guys had some goals for us this year," Sorber said of Becher and Lyons. "But it was the first time either of them had had tricks."

"We try not to be affected by the rankings. We don't worry about being rated No. 1. We just try to play like we can, and if we get some breaks, we should be able to do well as the year goes on."

They continued to do well as Tuesday's game went on. Becher's hard shot was stopped by Sondkers at 71:00, but the ball trickled behind the GOC keeper, and Lyons was there to tap it in the open net.

By now, the beleaguered Sondkers, who couldn't be blamed for any of the goals, was getting very little help from his teammates. Schonhoff's pass through the middle went to a wide open Lyons at 73:00, and he moved in alone and scored easily to make it 6-0.

But the Stars didn't pack it up for good. They moved the ball around in the Norsemen's end of the field, and Rob Paflogia ruined Ward's shutout with a strong shot from the right side that found the upper left-hand corner at 76:00.

"I wasn't disappointed that we scored that goal," Sorber said. "An excellent shot. I'm impressed with the GOC team. They were all the two goals right at the beginning of the second half."

"I think he (Petri) didn't have any players to choose from. The ones he has must really be good or he has done a nice job of coaching them."

"I think they were a little mystified that we stayed with them in the first half," Petri said. "So they just turned it up in the second half. But I don't think any of our players quit. It's just tough to keep going when you're down like that. The effort was there."

"I hope this game shows us some things we need to work on. When you're winning (the Stars had won five in a row), the bad things don't show up as much."

Sorber said the Norsemen don't have the depth of some of his great teams of the past, but Petri said they look as good as ever to him.

"He's used to drawing from 30-40 players," he said. "But they're the best team we've seen this year, no question. And they compare with some of their other teams of the past. They might be a little smaller, but quicker."

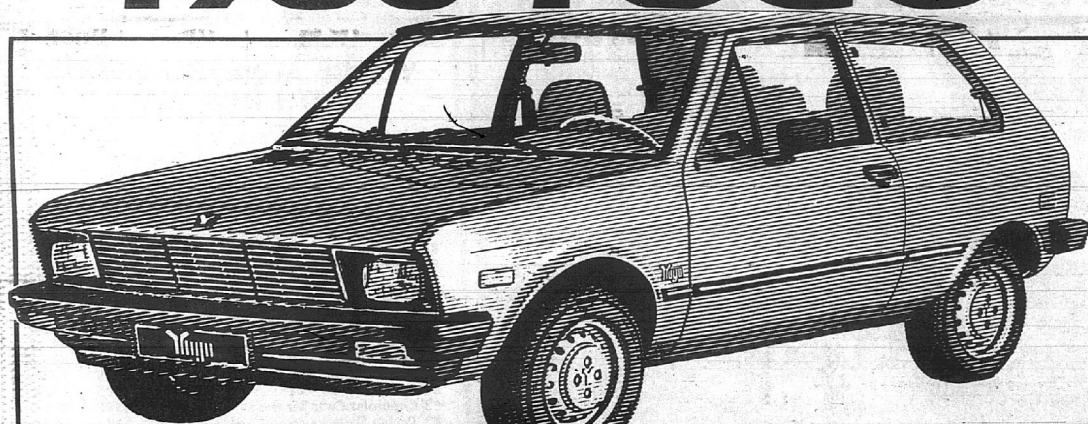

NOTES: The Stars are now 7-4-1, but only 1-5 in the MCC. CAC. "There's no question it's a tough conference," Petri said. "We would like to do better, but we're doing pretty well outside of the conference. Three of the top-rated teams in the country are in the league, so that's tough." The Stars won their first conference game of the year Saturday at East Central, 2-1. They have home games Saturday against Forest Park and Sunday against Missouri. Both games start at 2 p.m.

TENDONS IN TORMENT

Point at the back of the heel? It could be tendinitis, an inflammation of the large tendon at the back of the leg near the ankle.

Causes: heredity, muscle tightness because of hard exercise, extensive uphill climbing, walking up stairs or any activity pulling the tendon. Changing from high heels to flat sport shoes can agonize your tendons.

Diagnostic testing locates any biomechanical weaknesses. Prescribed heel lifts relieve pressure. Custom-designed exercises slowly stretch tendons and ease contraction of the calf muscles. Swelling is reduced by a special bandage or tape strapping to control range of motion of the injured part. Orthotics prevent the pronation that causes tendon twist and subsequent irritation.

Geo-Karis

Burris

For comptroller ...

Geo-Karis

Adeline J. Geo-Karis, a Republican senator from the state's 31st District, is seeking the position of comptroller in the Nov. 4 election.

Also an attorney, Geo-Karis was the first woman appointed assistant state's attorney in 1968 and elected to the office of justice of the peace in 1969 from Lake County, near Chicago. She also has served as an Illinois State Representative for six years.

If elected, Geo-Karis said she already has specific plans for the comptroller's office. They include:

- Greater public information — She proposes more public hearings around the state to explain how and why tax dollars are spent.
- Independent reports to the legislature — The comptroller should address the General Assembly prior to the appropriation process so legislators can have an informed, independent report on the state's financial condition before voting on expenditures.

- Close loopholes for contractors and consultants — Abuses in fees charged by those doing work for the state is caused by non-specific laws and objectives passed by the legislature. Upfront legislative action is required to correct the problem.

- Crack down on fraud — Geo-Karis, 68, proposed a "Retired Blue-Ribbon Voluntary Citizens Committee" to uncover and coordinate an effort to cut down waste from forged checks and misapplied funds.

The comptroller's office has not been successful in detecting illegal state spending and more surveillance of the methods is required, she said.

- Help improve the state's economic health — She would, on my own time and money, visit other states and try to attract business and industry to Illinois.

She also does not believe the merit employment code is a fair means of determining advancement opportunities, because "an exceptional person cannot be advanced easily."

Though many members of the press see the Freedom of Information Act as making public information more difficult to get, Geo-Karis said she favored the bill. However, she admits, bureaucracy takes a bit of time before the information is processed.

"She also favored disclosure of private business interests for all persons holding statewide office; would support legislation that would prohibit a person from holding more than one elected public office and the recall of elected officials."

Briggs not opposed in race

GRANITE CITY — There is no opposition to Democratic candidate Harry A. Briggs Jr. in the Nov. 4 race for Madison County regional superintendent of schools.

The post is expected to remain in the family. The current superintendent, Harold "Gene" Briggs, is retiring; he is an uncle of the candidate. The starting date of the next term is August 1987.

Harry Briggs Jr., son of Nameoki Township Supervisor Harry Briggs, won nomination in the Democratic primary last spring when he beat current District 9 Superintendent G.W. Wamsley.

It looked as though Briggs would have opposition when Republican Dale Hammond of Alton challenged a state requirement to work for four years in Illinois schools in order to be on the ballot. A federal court ruled that requirement unconstitutional and Hammond's name was placed on the ballot.

But, citing new employment opportunities, family considerations and Briggs' political connections, Hammond requested that his name be taken off the November ballot after he won the March primary.

The Madison County Republican Party did not offer a replacement. Briggs, who is Niederkorn grade school principal, said he basically supports school consolidations "if a quality educational program cannot be provided." But he said such consolidations are best left for local districts to decide.

On the issue of merit pay for teachers, Briggs does not advocate using extra pay as incentives for teachers.

Burris

Roland W. Burris, the Democratic incumbent for the office of comptroller for two terms, is seeking a third on Nov. 4.

During his tenure, Burris, the first black official elected statewide, has upgraded the accounting system with the state government to levels of "recognized excellence."

The office was granted the Certificate of Conformance, the highest award in the industry, by the Government Finance Officers of America. Illinois was the third state to be not directly affected by the Lyndon LaRouche "phenomenon."

Unlike the primary race for lieutenant governor and secretary of state, the LaRouche campaign cost Robert Hart, lost to regular Democrat Jerome Cosentino.

Cosentino, who served as state treasurer from 1979 to 1982, is the incumbent Treasurer James D. Newland in the primary.

As the state's banker, Cosentino said he earned Illinois the highest returns on state money in the history of the office.

Cosentino also takes credit for setting up a $100,000 loan program for commercial and industrial projects before leaving office and for arranging a $20 million loan to Chrysler Corp. The money was used to upgrade its Belvidere Plant, saving 5,000 jobs and gaining the state millions in interest revenues.

One of Cosentino's goals if elected would be to push for a limit on the amount of interest a bank can charge for credit cards. He has accused his Republican opponent, Springfield Mayor Michael Houston, of being against the proposal.

Cosentino also intends to establish the use of overnight depositories and wire transfers of state money within 48 hours of collection. He has said such a system would make better use of tax dollars.

Cosentino supports putting some state money in higher-yield interest-bearing accounts, a concept some argue as being risky.

Cosentino supports using state capital to help farmers. The Agricultural Loan Deposit Program, which Cosentino started in 1980, should be expanded, he said. Saving family farms would be his top priority, if elected.

Cosentino has been accused by Houston of being a "part-time" state treasurer, spending too much time in Chicago tending to his trucking business while in office.

Cosentino has said that much state treasury business is conducted in Chicago and that he would resign from his business if elected, allowing his sons to run the business.

On other issues, Cosentino said he opposes the practice of "double dipping" by public officials and has said he would not hire salaried public officials while they are in office and would support a law making dual public jobs illegal.

Cosentino said he would interpret the Illinois Freedom of Information Act broadly when information about state finances is requested by the public. He criticized narrow interpretations by politicians as "a tool to hide information from the media and the public."

Cosentino said he would start a toll-free "consumers hotline" for treasury information and complaints if elected.

He supports a constitutional balanced-budget amendment in Illinois.

Cosentino resides in Palos Heights near Chicago with his wife, Charlotte, and their four children. He is chairman of the board of Fast Motor Services, a trucking business regulated by the state.

On the issue of merit pay for teachers, Briggs does not advocate using extra pay as incentives for teachers.

Briggs generally agrees with the idea that teachers and administrators should be tested for competency. But he said such testing must be standardized and fair in order to be effective and should not be used to discriminate.

Briggs also thinks classroom teaching should be objective, with both sides of an issue presented.

One initiative Briggs hopes to bring to the office is to computerize the teacher certification process and other services.

Springfield Mayor Michael Houston, the Republican challenger for state treasurer, agrees with his Democratic opponent, Jerome Cosentino, on some issues, but offers a different assessment of Cosentino's proposal to put a cap on interest rate charges for credit cards.

While Houston sides have denied that he is against such a proposal, Houston has said that Cosentino's plan would make banks less likely to issue credit cards.

A centerpiece of Houston's campaign is his plan to beef up small-business loans.

Under the plan, $50 million would be distributed to banks for small-business loans if the banks are willing to provide five-year loans at only 3 percent higher than the banks are paying the state on deposits.

If the rate is 6.6 percent, as it has been recently, the banks would only charge the firm 9.6 percent, which would be lower than the usual rate.

Houston said such a plan would create about 5,000 new jobs in the state. Small businesses would be able to obtain up to $250,000 in loans under the plan.

Democrats have criticized the plan, saying the 3 percent add-on rate is too high and a lower rate probably could be attained on the open market.

Like Cosentino, Houston would like to increase the speed with which the state collects its revenues. He advocates decreasing the "float time" in collecting the revenues, especially for the state lottery.

He wants to use "state of the art" financial practices and technologies such as electronic fund transfers, lock box operations and optical scanning equipment to reduce collection time.

Cosentino also intends to establish the use of overnight depositories and wire transfers of state money within 48 hours of collection. He has said such a system would make better use of tax dollars.

The able writing of John Hughes (Sixteen Candles (1984) shows, and the cast works hard for director Howard Deutch. An entertaining story about romantic pitfalls faced by teen-agers. PG-13 (language). Color. 96 min. VHS/Beta HiFi Stereo.

The classic courtroom drama Anatomy of a Murder (1959) with James Stewart is a recent release from RCA/Columbia Home Video. This is the lengthy, but thoroughly engrossing Otto Preminger masterpiece with Stewart as a small-town lawyer defending an Army officer (Ben Gazzara) who is accused of killing a man who has raped his wife (Lee Remick).

George C. Scott, who was just starting his career, earned an Oscar nomination for playing the urbane prosecuting attorney.

The ingenious plot twists and bombastic emotions are emotionally draining. Overall it's a great adaptation of Robert Traver's best-selling novel. Not rated, but should be at least PG for content. B/W. 161 min. VHS/Beta HiFi.

The original pilot for Star Trek, which ran from 1966 to 1969 on television, was The Cage (1965). It featured Jeffrey Hunter plus Christopher Pike, captain of the U.S.S. Enterprise, and a young Vulcan science officer named Spock (Leonard Nimoy). But NBC refused to accept this version, thinking it too intellectual, and opted for the action-oriented Captain Kirk (William Shatner). The episode, which has never been shown before, will be distributed to video stores this week by Paramount Home Video.

In this pilot the Enterprise answers a distress call put out by a race of cerebral creatures who are looking for a mate for Susan Oliver. Pike is selected. Creator Gene Roddenberry, who personally introduces this story, added some of his black and white copy to complete the film. A must for Sci-Fi fans in general, and "Trekkies" in particular. Color/B&W. 73 min. VHS/Beta HiFi. ■ Turtle Diary (1986) is a warm British comedy-drama about a bookstore clerk (Ben Kingsley) and a children's writer (Glenda Jackson) who scheme to release three, 30-year old sea turtles from their cramped quarters at a zoo in London, and transport them 600 miles to the sea.

A recent release from Vestron Video, Oscar-winners Kingsley and Jackson give superb performances, interacting with gentleness and a low-key, joy-filled sense of humor. PG (sexual situations). Color. 94 min. VHS/Beta.

■ Beloved animated fantasy set to the music of Tchaikovsky, in which true love triumphs, could only describe the classic Sleeping Beauty (1959), which is being released this week by Walt Disney Home Video. This is a thoroughly charming, dramatic and entertaining adaptation of Charles Perrault's 17th century version of the famed fairy tale. Princess Aurora has an evil curse placed on her at birth by the vengeful fairy Maleficent.

Aurora is doomed to prick her finger on the spinning wheel and fall asleep on her 16th birthday, with the only remedy being a kiss from her true love. Opera star Mary Costa provides the singing voice. Not rated, but should be PG for some violent scenes. Color. 75 min. VHS/Beta. Trivia Corner: Last week's answers: 1. Amecio won the 1986 Oscar for Best Supporting Actor for Coal.

Black Films To Be Presented Weekly

The Urban League's Vaughn Cultural Center will present the Tyler Texas Black Film Collection at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 23 and 30 at the University City library auditorium, 6701 Delmar Blvd.

Thirty of the films are black audience films made between 1939 and 1953. Black audience films are films that were made by blacks, featured black casts and were shown to black audiences primarily in segregated southern theatres.

These films have much to tell about the black American experience of that period. Although this type of film went out of style in the mid-1950s, they are significant today for film historians and historians of black history and culture.

Film historians appreciate the Tyler collection as providing a missing link in American film history.

The collection consists of features and shorts and includes romantic melodramas, murder mysteries, musicals, comedies, social dramas and newsreels. All the films in this series have been restored with funds from the Zale Corporation. They are now available as high quality 16mm prints.

Educators get missionary education

The educators get educated when 78 Woman's Missionary Union leaders spent two days at the Foreign Mission Board in September.

The women, described as "bridges" between Southern Baptist mission work around the world and the 36,500 SBC churches and groups in 45 states and the District of Columbia.

The consensus seemed to be the experience was valid and valuable.

"In 1969, as a new state young people's secretary, I attended a meeting like this — and since there has not been one like it since, I have lived and flourished off that 1969 experience," said Carolyn Westford, executive director of the national WMU. "We needed this moment to look again at the real purpose of what we do."

The women sat in on the September meeting of the mission board's trustees, attended the commissioning services for 21 new SBC foreign missionaries and spent time with key administrative leaders at the board.

R. Keith Parks, board president, presented his overview and his vision of world missions and the part WMU can play in moving the SBC to "another level of missionary activity."

Parks expressed a prayer that Baptists will think and pray about missions "as they read the morning paper and listen to the news...that they will be as excited about missions as they are depressed or excited by what they learn from the headlines."

"Woman's Missionary Union has the worldview to be the key to the Southern Baptist Church's prayer for national Christian leaders and for ways we can best work with other evangelical Christians to win our world for Christ," he said.

William O'Brien, executive vice president, listed the vast financial and personnel resources the SBC has before saying, "Imagine what could happen if we did it right."

Park challenged all "not to spend time judging where people are on their pilgrimage but rather work on keeping them facing toward the central purpose of being the Christians God has called them to be."

PRESIDENT TO PRESIDENT: —Mrs. Mickey Patrick, of Granite City, president of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Illinois Baptist State Association, was one of 78 WMU leaders from across the United States who recently spent two days at the Southern Baptist Convention's Foreign Mission Board in Richmond, Va. Above, Patrick (center) visits with R. Keith Parks, board president, and Evelyn Tully, Illinois WMU executive director. The board, the largest missionary-sending agency in the U.S., has more than 3,700 missionaries in 107 countries.

"Until the future of the world is more important than the future of your church — your church has no future," he said.

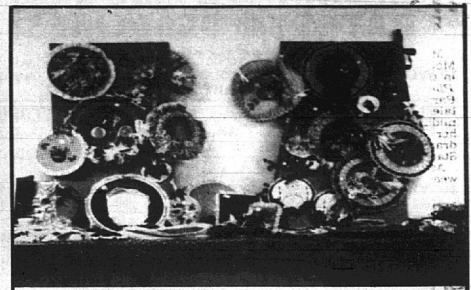

"And until the future of the world is more important than the future of our denomination, the SBC has no future in God's plan to bring everyone in the world into a saving knowledge of God."

Evaluation of the meeting included:

"I feel almost guilty representing so many people in New Mexico who would love to be here and learn what I have learned. I've never had the chance to participate in a commissioning service..."

"I'm a home missionary now and I've been in missions work for 25 years, but this is my first visit to the FMB...I came here tired and burdened, and despite the hectic schedule I am going home more rested...the job is bigger than any one of us."

The WMU has a membership of 1.2 million. In addition to serving as a primary missions education organization, it also promotes convention-wide offerings for missions in the U.S. (the Annie Armstrong Easter offering) and for foreign missions (the Lottie Moon Christmas offering). In 1985 Southern Baptists gave more than $93.8 million through those emphases.

BAZAAR ITEMS prepared by members of the Word of Life Tabernacle will be offered for sale from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 18, at Schnuck's Store. Decorative crafts, quilts, infant articles, Christmas tree skirts and ornaments will be exhibited and the group will also have homemade bakery products to sell.

The chairmen appointed the following committee leaders: bazaar, Harriet Bunselmeyer and Jackie Willard; telephoning, Doris Labaray; kitchen, Velma Farrance and Dody Gaines; dining room, Joe Hassler; seating, Bill McAmish; desserts, Doris Labaray; dishwashing, Carrie Durell; purchasing, Jim Singleton; sausage cooks, Don and Helen Robertson and Dick and Joanne Snyder; parking lot, Fred Dettmer; apple sauce, Doris Oliver; babysitting, Barb Suss; potato masher, Dave Douglas; coffee, Kenny Anderson; and tickets and publicity, Steve Suss.

The family-style dinner menu will include home-made pork sausage, mashed potatoes, gravy, sauerkraut, green beans, home-made apple sauce, bread, home-made pie or cake, and beverage.

Tickets are $4.50 for adults, $2.25 for children under age 10, and free for children who are five or younger. Serving times are from 11:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The bazaar will feature home-made jellies, jams, pickles, relishes and breads. Plants, baskets, pumpkins and gourds will also be sold. Quilts, afghans, pillows, macramé and other handcrafted items will be sold as well as all types of Christmas decorations, gifts and ornaments. There will be a small rummage area of "treasures."

The semi-annual meat sale sponsored by the Brotherhood will be held on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 in the St. John Cemetery building.

Rev. Pierson leaving, accepts new assignment

After 13 years in Granite City, the well-known pastor of the Nameoki Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Don F. Pierson, presented his resignation on Monday evening, Oct. 13.

He has accepted a call for pastoral service to the First Presbyterian Church of Robinson, Ill. He will remain in the Nameoki pulpit until the end of November, and begin his new pastorate Dec. 1.

"It will not be easy to leave the many wonderful friends and associations that we have enjoyed throughout these 13 years," the pastor said. "Closing a huge chapter in our lives of love, friendship, dreams and disappointments as well as achievements is going to be difficult."

He described the local congregation as "vigorous and warm-hearted." Rev. Pierson has served on the Tri-City Area YMCA board of directors, was public information officer for the Quad-Cities' Unit of the American Cancer Society, was president and active in the Ministerial Association, was a member of the Citizens' Advisory Committee of the Quad-Cities, City schools, and a member of the Rotary Club and other groups.

Pierson was chairman of the board of the church's Mid-America nominating committee and a member of the Synod Ministries Committee; he was a frequent commissioner to the Synod.

He served on the Buildings and Properties Committee of the Presbytery as well as the Nominating Committee and Ethnic and Racial Concerns Committee. He has been on the board of the Gateway East Metropolitan Ministry since it started a new Presbyterian presence in East St. Louis.

Marion Pierson, the pastor's wife, served two terms as president of Church Women United and was active in other community organizations. She is currently on the staff of the Giddings-Lovejoy Presbytery, developing a network of persons concerned with public policies.

She served as chairman of the Presbytery's Peacemaking Committee and is involved in tutoring persons unable to read.

Mrs. Pierson has taught in both the Synod and Presbytery School for Christian Faith. She taught in the vacation Bible school and is a member of the Sanctuary Choir and the Presbyterian Women's Association.

Rev. Don F. Pierson

tion of the local church.

The Piersons are the parents of three sons. Eric is an attorney in Eau Claire, Wis., where he is employed by the Legal Education Association, developing seminars for lawyers nationwide; he was a national Presbyterian scholar at Macalester College in St. Paul, Minn. They enjoy travel, reading, swimming, gardening and community events.

Rev. Pierson has been to the Holy Land five times, having designed and led tours on three occasions.

"A pastor's life becomes intertwined with other lives in a deep and caring way; it will not be easy to say goodbye to the congregation or the community," Pierson added, "but we anticipate another happy experience in Robinson."

Fr. Sheahan to mark 40 years

The Rev. John F. Sheahan, formerly of Granite City, will celebrate his 40th anniversary in the priesthood on Sunday, Nov. 2, with an open house at the Holy Trinity Church parish hall, Mt. Olive, from 2 until 4 p.m.

Father Sheahan was ordained by Bishop James A. Griffin in 1946 at the Church of St. Francis of Assisi in Teutopolis.

His first assignment was at St. Mary's Church, Quincy, 1946, followed by Sacred Heart, Granite City, 1949; St. Alexius, Beardstown, 1953; chaplain, St. John's Hospital, Springfield, 1955; pastor, St. Stanislaus, Macomb and St. Francis DeSales, Movequa, 1956; St. Denis, Shipman, and St. John the Evangelist, Medora, 1959; St. Peter, Quincy, 1972; St. Denis, Shipman, and St. John the Evangelist, 1974; retired, 1977; temporary administrator, St. Raymond in Raymond, 1980.

Parishioners and friends are being invited to rejoice with Fr. Sheahan and his sister, Mrs. Annamiae Stewart, at a buffet luncheon served in the church hall.

No invitations are being sent out.

City Temple youths plan barbecue sale

The youth group of City Temple Assembly of God Church will sponsor a barbecue sale on Saturday, Oct. 18.

Plans were discussed for a sorority City Council get-together on Oct. 29. The event will follow the international theme of "Share the Dream," the chairman said.

Barth presented a program on epilepsy and handicapped children, discussing treatment. She works at Hubert Wheeler State School in St. Louis.

Others attending were Carolyn Walsh, Kathy Kennerly, Linda Koenig, Betty Beck and Barbara Hente.
